The Two Versions of the Register

The Electoral Registration Officer makes and keeps two versions of the electoral register:-

The Full Register lists everyone who is entitled to vote. You can check it by calling at the council offices or at some local libraries. Only certain people and organisations can have copies of the full register, and they can only use it for specified purposes. These include electoral purposes, the prevention and detection of crime, and checking your identity when you have applied for credit. The law says who can have a copy of the Full Register and what they can use it for. It is a criminal offence for them to pass it on to anyone else or to use it otherwise.

The Edited Register leaves out the names of people who have asked for them to be excluded from that version of the register. The edited register can be bought by anyone who asks for a copy and they may use it for any purpose.
