

Safeguarding Adults: Domestic Abuse

Anyone can experience domestic abuse. When a vulnerable adult is experiencing domestic abuse, the safeguarding adults process can help by:

Offering information and advice to help keep the person safe

Supporting the person to find somewhere else to live

Talking to the person and letting them decide what they would like support with

Arranging an independent advocate who can explore the legal options available

To raise a concern that a vulnerable adult may be experiencing abuse or neglect, visit www.walthamforest.gov.uk/content/safeguarding-adults-board-sab